Continental Connection/Cape Air Launches New Service to the Florida Keys

Three daily flights between Fort Myers and Marathon,

For Immediate Release-November 12, 2008-Hyannis, MA – Continental Connection, operated by Cape Air, the largest independent regional airline in the United States, will launch new air service between Fort Myers and the Florida Keys Marathon Airport on December 19th. The new Marathon route expands Cape Air’s current partnership with Continental Connection between Fort Myers and Key West.

“This is a partnership that works well for the passengers,” says Cape Air President Dan Wolf. “Continental Connection’s frequent service into Fort Myers provides seamless connectivity for people traveling to and from the Keys and you can continue to earn Continental’s One Pass™ miles on the Cape Air portion of your trip. “The City of Marathon and all of Monroe County are anxiously awaiting the start of this service. We are all delighted to have air service alternatives for our Middle Keys visitors and residents. Non-stop service from Marathon to Ft. Myers on a Continental Connection opens up new and exciting possibilities to those who wish to connect to other Continental flights as well as other airlines.” says Key West International Airport’s Peter Horton.

All flights operate daily.
